- 1 Listen to five short conversations. There is one question for each conversation. For 1–5 underline the correct answer.

EXAMPLE

Jo Hi Lisa. How's it going with your new boyfriend?

Lisa It's OK, I really like him. But I don't think his mum likes me.

Jo As long as he likes you, that's the main thing.

1

A Can you play any sports?

B I can play football, but I can't play basketball.

A What do you mean, you can't play it?

B Well, I can play it but I don't like it.

2

Husband What are you looking for, Sally?

Sally My new shoes. Can you help me?

Husband OK, what do they look like?

Sally They're red with white stripes.

3

A Do you like trying on clothes?

B No, I quite like buying clothes but I never try anything on.

A Maybe that's why all your clothes look so terrible.

4

A How often do you buy DVDs?

B Hardly ever. I like watching films, but I think DVDs are too expensive.

A So why do you have a DVD player?

B I don't know really. It was just a new toy, I suppose.

5

A Do you want to come shopping today?

B But it's Saturday. It's always so busy and there's football on TV.

A What about tomorrow?

B Oh yeah. Tomorrow's fine.

- 2 Listen to Angela talking about music. For questions 6–10 complete the table.

[A = Angela, I = interviewer]

I Do you like music, Angela?

A Oh yes, I love music, it's one of the most important things in my life.

I What kind of music do you like? Jazz, rock, blues?

A No, I don't really like any of those. I like opera and classical music.

I Can you play any instruments?

A No, but I sing in a choir.

I Do you? Can you sing well?

A Yes, people say I have a good voice. And I can read music. You need to, to sing in the choir.

I Really. What about listening to music? Do you buy a lot of CDs?

A Yes, probably too many, I usually buy a new CD every week.

I Do you download music from the Internet?

A No, I don't really understand how that works, and more importantly I don't have a computer.
